DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

1. Claims 5, 6, 7, 13, 14, 17, 19, 20, and 21 withdrawn from further consideration pursuant to 37 CFR 1.142(b) as being drawn to a nonelected species, there being no allowable generic or linking claim. Election was made without traverse in the reply filed on 6/19/2006.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

2. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

3. Claims 1 – 4 and 8 – 11 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Gallagher (US 3, 408,657). The device of Gallagher discloses a device for restraining an object (28) to the hand of a user, the hand having more than one side (palm side and dorsal side) and an arm member (9), at least one attachment member (30) being attachable to the arm member, the object being restrained proximal to the hand by extending the attachment member between one side of the hand (Figure 11) to the other side of the hand (Figure 1), wherein the object is positioned between the hand and the attachment member. The attachment member has a first end which is removable attachable to the arm member (38) and the attachment member can be positioned around the arm member so that the attachment member does not extend around an object. The object is attached to the hand by extending the attachment member (30) between the palm side (Figure 2) and the outer side (Figure 1) so that the object is positioned between the palm side of the hand and the attachment member (30). The arm member has a pivoting portion, the pivoting portion (32) pivoting when the attachment member is around the object (See the pivoting movement in Figures 1, 2 and 3). In regard to claims 2 and 10, the device of Gallagher does not specifically disclose the objects being a human being or a gun as claimed by the applicant. However, the device of Gallagher is inherently capable of securing any type of object in place of the object which is shown. MPEP section 2114 recites that a claim containing a "recitation with respect to the manner in which a claimed apparatus is intended to be employed does not differentiate the claimed apparatus from a prior art apparatus" if the prior art apparatus teaches all the structural limitations of the claim. Ex parte Masham, 2 USPQ2d 1647 (Bd. Pat. App. & Inter. 1987). Therefore, the object which is being restrained (i.e. A human being secured to the attachment member by the neck) for self defense, military, or law enforcement purposes is met by the device of Gallagher since the structure would allow the device to perform in the manner which is claimed.

4. Claims 15, 16, 18, and 22 – 26 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Tiktin (US 4,368,883). The device of Tiktin discloses an attachment member (40) for restraining an object (42) proximal to the hand of a user (Figure 1). The attachment member having at least one first end (see the end attached to the arm member 10) and second end attached to the object (42) and at least one intermediate portion (44) being located between each end and each end have a respective attacher comprising a bracket (46). It is noted that the device is selectively capable of being attached to any portion of the arm members various attachment points (30, 32, 34) and is capable of attaching any object between the palm of the wearer and the outer side of the glove in the manner claimed by the applicant.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

5. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

6. Claim 12 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Gallagher in view of Roush (US 6,678,986). The device of Gallagher substantially discloses the claimed invention but is lacking a pivoting portion comprising a memory member. The device of Roush discloses a pivoting member (16) having a memory member (Column 5, lines 35 –41). It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to use a memory member as taught by Roush in order to provide a precise fit to the object that is being retained.
